For the past eighteen years, the Connecticut Trauma Conference has provided high quality education in trauma, critical care, and gun violence. The Program Committee has invited local, regional and national experts in the field, some of whom have spoken here in the past. The keynote speaker is a trauma survivor who speaks vividly on his experience as a trauma patient. Other topics include self-related topics, away management, disaster and new and novel topics in trauma care. The final week will focus on violence in healthcare environments. This conference is designed to educate across categories across the spectrum of trauma.

The learning objectives of this meeting are:
- To discuss issues in the area of sports-related injuries.
- To discuss disaster management with a focus on active shooters and bleeding control.
- To discuss the challenges with patient acuity management.
- To review recent concepts in the management of penetrating trauma.
- To discuss cutting-edge issues in violence prevention.
